Pre-Jury Proceedings

8:01:04 AM ET

Good morning from inside Boston's Moakley Federal Courthouse, where this will be today's live thread coverage for testimony in the Sandra Birchmore and Matthew Farwell trial.

I am here so early the media room is still closed.

I am wandering the building looking for Barb.

Reminder; there will be a short mod-morning towel break in coverage due to pre-exisiting medical and personal appointments.

God bless you all and thank you for your understanding.

Okay, I've taken my seat inside the overflow room and I'll be here for the next few minutes until it is time for my towel break.

I have asked @ameliarstern1 to attempt to provide a real-time set of notes while I am gone, and she said she will do her best.

You got this, Amelia!

Chief Judge Casper is very upset this morning about certain folks from the media, and members of the public, posting trial exhibits of Sandra's dead body.

I tried to tell you all not to do that.

No more exhibits may be published.

Ruling in full;

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF MASSACHUSETTS

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

v.

MATTHEW FARWELL,

Defendant.

Case No. 24-cr-10259-DJC

ORDER

CASPER, C.J.

October 19, 2026

To ensure that the ongoing trial in this case continues to be conducted in a manner conducive to providing a fair and impartial trial for Defendant Mr. Farwell, pursuant to the Local Rules, this Court's inherent authority and as consistent with applicable law, the Court FINDS and ORDERS as follows:

On Friday, it was brought to this Court's attention that one party to this case, the government, had posted copies of the exhibits admitted in the course of the ongoing trial on its publicly available website. To this point in the trial, exhibits have included but not been limited to photos of the body of Ms. Birchmore as discovered on February 4, 2021, items seized from the alleged crime scene, journal entries, and data from electronic devices seized in the investigation of the alleged crimes charged against Defendant Mr. Farwell.

During the course of this trial, the jury must be free from outside influences so that they can consider the evidence presented and, at the end of the case, render a verdict based solely on the evidence and the applicable law. Although the Court has advised, and will continue to advise, the jurors of their obligation not to view or consider outside information about the case, it is appropriate for the Court to take additional measures to ensure that jurors remain free of any outside influence about the nature of evidence presented and to ensure that Mr. Farwell receives a fair and impartial trial. In re Globe Newspaper Co., 920 F.2d 88, 97 n. 10 (1st Cir. 1990) (noting the Court's "needs to protect its essential processes, including the jury system, from . . . influences that threaten the objectivity and independence of jurors"); see United States v. Chin, 913 F.3d 251, 258 (1st Cir. 2019).

Against this compelling interest, the Court has considered the public's interest in an "open judicial process." In re Globe, 920 F.2d at 9. This trial is and remains a publicly accessible proceeding. As noted in this Court's Order of September 30, 2026 (which remains in place and full effect), D. 295, to accommodate the public and media, in addition to the space in Courtroom 10, the Court has provided two, overflow courtrooms with closed circuit video feed to the courtroom. The public, including the media, have been present to hear and see the evidence in the form of witness testimony and exhibits, and the media has been able, and will continue to be able, to report on these proceedings.

Having considered the balance of these interests, particularly in a highly publicized case involving allegations of a killing and predicate acts involving the alleged coercion and enticement and deprivation of the rights of a minor, the Court ORDERS that the government remove and not post or distribute any exhibits in this case before a verdict is rendered in this case. These measures are necessary to ensure a fair and impartial trial for Farwell but are also consistent with this Court's September 30th Order that attorneys for the parties in this case shall abide by L.R. 83.2.1 regarding the release of information by attorneys, D. 295 ¶ 5, as well with L.R. 83.2.2 (providing that "[i]n a widely publicized or sensational criminal or civil trial, the court may . . . issue a special order governing such matters as (1) extrajudicial statements by parties . . . that are likely to interfere with the rights of the accused or the litigants to a fair trial by impartial jury; . . . and (4) any other matters that the court may deem appropriate for inclusion in such an order").

This Order shall remain in place and in effect during the duration of the trial proceedings or until further Order of the Court.

So Ordered.

/s Denise J. Casper
Chief United States District Judge

Summary:

In the ongoing federal criminal trial of Matthew Farwell (U.S. v. Farwell, D. Mass., Case No. 24-cr-10259-DJC), Chief Judge Denise J. Casper issued an order on October 19, 2026, directing the government to immediately remove any trial exhibits it had posted on its public website and to refrain from posting or distributing any further exhibits until a verdict is reached.

The order responds to the government having published sensitive materials, including photos of the body of Ms. Birchmore (discovered February 4, 2021), crime-scene items, journal entries, and electronic-device data. The Court emphasized the need to shield the jury from outside influences so it can decide solely on evidence presented in court, while balancing this against the public's interest in an open judicial process. The trial remains publicly accessible (with overflow courtrooms and closed-circuit video), and the media may continue reporting. The order is grounded in the Court's inherent authority, Local Rules 83.2.1 and 83.2.2 (on extrajudicial statements in widely publicized cases), and First Circuit precedent protecting juror impartiality. It remains in effect for the duration of the trial or until modified by the Court.

Judge says she has the current witness list.

"Who comes next?

"Dr. Dankitariman or Dr. Roccio.

"Counsel as you may have seen I entered docket 361 as to the posting of the exhibits, so that is the record, counsel I want to talk to you about the disputed exhibits, I did receive two lists counsel. The later list that started with 56 is the correct one?"

"Yes, your honor."

Open original post on X

8:49:29 AM ET

"Just a few things on this list, I under 56 as having been admitted, the majority are medical records and I believe 653 and 658 are journal entries. In regards to E1, and in regards to G11, this may be a defense proposed exhibit, I did not see as falling within my ruling on 412 or mental health, I won't go into the substance of it, this was a like or didn't like this in regards to conduct?"

"Yes, your honor."

"Counsel, just fair warning as to G-11."

"Anything else?"

"No, your honor, we, the defense, will try to lay a foundation through Agent Kelsch and then admit."

"Well, I have 412 concerns so touch base with me. I don't think it falls under any exception of 412."

Good ruling from Judge here. 412 is special character evidence of SA victims.

Open original post on X

8:51:00 AM ET

"What about the 'beyond pissed letter?'"

"Yes, your honor, that goes to financial lssues."

"Okay, I will listen but that is one where I wasn't sure."

"It also may become relevant during the defense's cases-in-chief and it bears on family relationships that may be more relevant later."

"Then government won't object on authenticity ground, it's our position that e-11 and g-11 and inadmissible because they violate a prior court order related to rule 412, but we won't object, other than on relevance, to h-11."

Open original post on X

8:54:40 AM ET

"Counsel, I think e-11 may stand on different ground as it has some references to mental health...on q-10 and r-10, these are Dr. Leonard's records and then a letter...is Dr. Leonard on the witness list? You're not seeking to admit you only want them from cross exam of government witnesses?"

"Yes, your honor, sadly Dr. Leonard has died so he is not on the witness list, but his reports will be relevant during the upcoming witness."

"Your honor, can the government be heard?"

"Yes."

"Your honor, these are not Ms. Birchmore's medical records, it's a letter, so it doesn't fall under the exception. This is a provider for Denise (Sandra's aunt) so it is multiple layers of hearsay. So we don't think the defense can establish that this is a treatment record, or that it is not hearsay, so I would ask the court to review and I don't think it should come in today."

"Okay, I did review...the context of the mother's treatment is relevant..."

"Your honor, it's an older form of medical record, if I may..."

"You may."

"It's an older form of medical record, but it does meet the form of what a medical record looks like and then it is used by later treating doctors."

"Counsel, I'll listen to the foundation and I understand the government's object6ion. At a minimum, if I decide it's coming in, there may be some redaction necessary as it is a wide ranging record."

Open original post on X

8:56:50 AM ET

"Exhibit 751, I think these are Ms. Birchmore's school records?"

"Part of this has already been introduced, her attendance records, but the government's objection here, and this is the problem with exhibits that have multiple areas...if the defense wants to offer Ms. Birchmore's grades, that's fine, but the multiple pages in the middle are not relevant."

"Your honor, the defense wants to show the attendance records from when before Ms. Birchmore met Mr. Farwell, and as to the medical records, we want it for rebuttal but we don't intend to introduce it today."

"I'll listen, counsel, I think some of the attendance records are in. I would expect them to come in anyway, even if they are for a longer period of time. I'll reserve on the other pages for now."

"Counsel, all of the jurors are here."

"Because Ms. Birchmore's OBGYN might start testifying today, I may give an instruction on hybrid-fact/expert witnesses...is that something the defense wants?"

"Can you preview the instruction for me?"

"I found a pattern instruction out of the 9th circuit that says the person will testify about both facts and opinions, and the fact t6estimony is what they saw heard or did, whereas expert testimony is derived from their education and experience."

Source & Editorial Notes

Primary source: The factual courtroom narrative in this archive is limited to posts authored by @GrantSmithEllis. Other users' replies, reposts, and commentary were excluded from the reconstructed reporting.

Chronology: Posts are ordered by their recorded creation times converted to Eastern Time. The archive begins with Grant's designated live-thread root at 8:01:04 AM ET and ends with his 4:20:07 PM ET report that court was finished for the day.

Reporting break: Grant announced at 9:08:40 AM that he was leaving for medical and personal appointments and returned to his courtroom seat at 11:25:12 AM. He linked to notes prepared by Amelia Stern during that interval. Those linked notes are not reproduced as Grant-authored reporting; Grant's own posts during the interval are retained where relevant.

Replies: Grant-authored replies are included when they continue, expand, or organize his courtroom reporting. Pure acknowledgments, unrelated conversation, reposts, and emoji-only posts are excluded.

Text fidelity: Grant's wording, capitalization, punctuation, typos, and characterizations are preserved as retrieved except for repair of obvious character-encoding corruption introduced by the export process.

Exhibits: Grant's references to exhibits shown, admitted, or discussed in court are preserved as part of his reporting. Following the court's October 19 order restricting publication of trial exhibits, this archive does not attempt to acquire, reproduce, reconcile, or embed newly referenced trial exhibits.

Editorial headings: Witness and proceeding headings are editorial navigation based on Grant's own reporting and are not quotations from the court record.
